REDFIELD WILL CONDUCT PROBE

Secretary Intends Investigating Chicago Horror.

OTHER OFFICIALS ARE BUSY

Evidence Is Being Secured in an Effort to Place the Responsibility for the Loss of About One Thousand Lives When the Steamer Eastland Capsized.

Chicago, July 27.—Plans for investigations by federal, state and city officials, to determine who was to blame for the capsizing of the steamer Eastland in the Chicago river Saturday with a loss of hundreds of lives, have been completed.

A coroner's jury will start an inquest, while federal departments, headed by Secretary of Commerce Redfield, and officers from the police department and the office of the state's attorney will proceed with the gathering of evidence, holding formal inquiry in abeyance until the inquest is over.

Secretary Redfield will arrive in Chicago to take personal charge of the department's investigation of the Eastland disaster. He is en route from Syracuse, N. Y., where he has been taking a vacation.

Solicitor Thurman of the department of commerce, armed with all the records relating to the Eastland, left to join the secretary and George Uhler, chief of the steamboat inspection service, now touring the Pacific coast, probably will be called to Chicago.

Solicitor Thurman, who will have charge of the legal phases of the investigation, will co-operate with local officials of the department in ascertaining the causes of the tragedy.

May Reorganize Service.

Possibilities of a general reorganization of the steamboat inspection service were much discussed at the department and it was indicated that something of the sort was to be expected soon.

Efforts continue to remove victims of the disaster from the wrecked ship and to tabulate the dead, to determine whether the total death list would remain around 1,000, as many believe, or creep up to 1,200 or more, as others predict. Registration of employees by the Western Electric company showed nearly 400 missing, but many of the names of these were included in the 826 bodies already recovered and identified. It was said also that probably a goodly number did not report, although safe.

The probability of swelling the list above a thousand was suggested by the announcement of detectives from the state's attorney's office that they had seized the tickets taken from passengers boarding the Eastland for the excursion to Michigan City, Ind., and that these tickets numbered 2,500. These, it was pointed out, did not account for children, musicians and the seventy-two members of the crew.

Number on Vessel 2,800.

They estimated that the total number of persons aboard the steamer might have been 2,800 or more, instead of the 2,480 previously announced by officials of the Indiana Transportation company, lessees of the ship.

Estimates by marine engineers showed that it would take from ten to thirty days to put the Eastland on its keel. It was said that until the ship was removed it could not be determined how many bodies, if any, had been caught under the hull and superstructure.

Plans to use dynamite in raising bodies embedded in mud were abandoned for the time being, for fear the explosion might destroy any evidence the ship could give of possible mismanagement of the water ballast system, said by several marine engineers to be the probable cause of the capsizing.

Coroner Hoffman placed W. J. Wood, naval architect who dubbed the Eastland the "crank of the lakes," in charge of all work at the wreck, so that any evidence of faulty construction of the ship or of improper handling may be discovered and preserved while the work of recovering bodies proceeds.

INDIANS AMBUSH MEXICANS

Police Chief Among Ten Killed in Party Sent Against Yaquis.

Guaymas, Mex., July 27.—It is reported here that Mexican soldiers sent from Guaymas against the Yaqui Indians were ambushed by the latter and ten soldiers, including the chief of police of Guaymas, were killed and four wounded. The Indian casualties are not reported.

Guaymas and the Yaqui valley are quiet.

ELBERT H. GARY.

Wants United States to Have the Largest Navy.

MAKE NAVY BEST, GARY SAYS

Believes Big Army and Hawaii Are Formidable Buffer.

Honolulu, July 27.—In an address to the members of the Honolulu chamber of commerce Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, declared himself to be in favor of a larger army and navy and of increased fortification of the Hawaiian islands. He said:

"Immediate steps toward military expansion should be taken by the United States. We should maintain the largest and best navy in the world and our army should be many times larger than it is.

"Hawaii, as a buffer for our western shores, should be made strong enough to defend itself and the surrounding seas."

BECKER'S EXECUTION HALTED TILL FRIDAY

Justice Ford Requests More Time to Consider Plea.

New York, July 27.—Upon the request of Supreme Court Justice Ford for more time to consider the application for a new trial made by Charles Becker, under sentence of death for instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, gambler, the execution of the former police lieutenant was postponed from Wednesday until Friday morning.

Justice Ford heard arguments for and against the application. At their conclusion he reserved decision. The justice telephoned to Warden Osborne of Sing Sing prison and requested that the execution be postponed. As the electrocution can take place legally any day this week, at the discretion of the warden, this request was granted.

Justice Ford announced he would decide the case as quickly as possible. It was said he might not finish his deliberations before Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

The attempt made by Becker's attorneys to have the condemned man, as well as the authors of several affidavits alleged to contain new evidence and the persons mentioned in them, called to the witness stand in the proceedings, failed for the time being, at least. Justice Ford said he saw no necessity for calling witnesses.

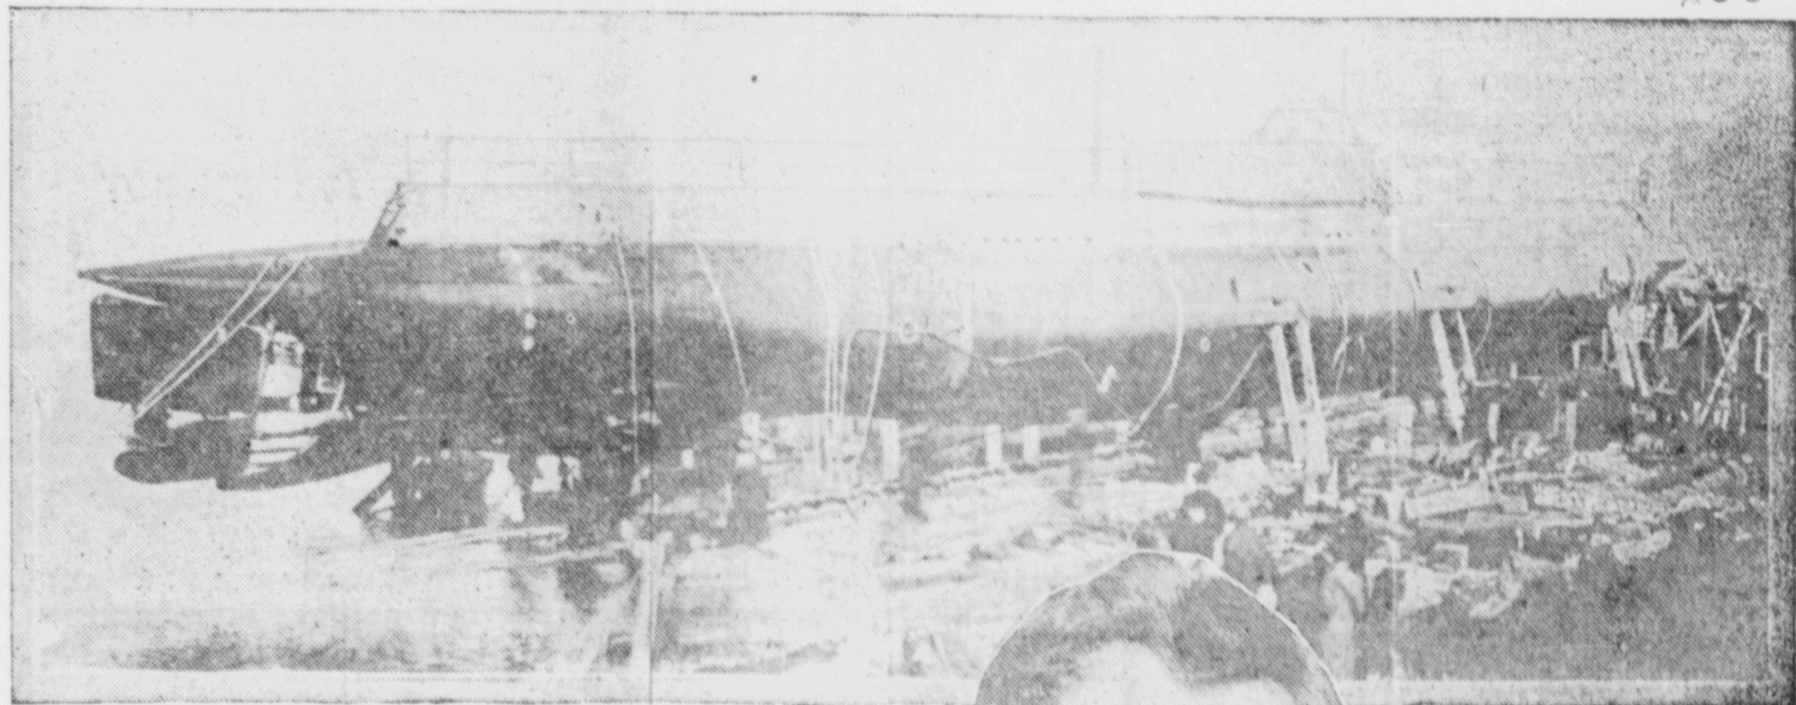

MANY PERSONS ARE DROWNED IN FLOODS.

Tokio, July 27.—Many persons have been drowned and considerable damage has been done on the island of Hokkaido and in Korea by the floods.

Amateur Boxer Slain.

London, July 27.—Second Lieutenant George Mitchell, who was killed in battle in France July 22, was a nephew of the late Percy Holden Hingworth, chief government whip, and was once amateur heavyweight boxing champion of the north of England. Mitchell was defeated by Georges Carpentier, the French heavyweight champion, in a bout in Paris last year.

EASTLAND DISASTER 400 BODIES IN HULL

(By United Press)

Chicago, July 27.—Two more bodies were taken from the Chicago river near the Eastland this morning, making a total of 820 recovered. The coroner stated that four hundred were inside the hull, a cluster of bodies being found between the second and first decks. When the way is clear to the ball room, a sickening sight is expected. When the hull is lifted the authorities will stretch a net across the river to catch the floating bodies. Captain Pederson has made a statement that there were 2500 on the boat. The first license was for 2,200. Then the captain said he was ordered to go to the offices of the federal inspector of hulls where a new license allowing 2,500 was obtained without question.

Minneapolis, July 27.—Roy Davis, assistant secretary of the St. Joe Chicago line, owners of the Eastland, was discovered here this afternoon. He planned to leave later for Chicago where the federal authorities are seeking him. He was present himself at the accident, and was suffering from the shock of hearing hundreds of women and children's cries, and fled here Saturday. Mr. Davis was the only official of the line aboard the Eastland. Mr. Davis says he is unable to account for the accident to the Eastland. The federal inspectors have repeatedly declared the Eastland seaworthy. He denied overcrowding, but stated if she was overcrowded he blamed the federal inspectors on the gangplank.

GERMANY TO CONTINUE SUBMARINE WARFARE

(By United Press)

Berlin, July 27.—"Germany in its reply to the American note must be firm," said Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs Zimmerman this afternoon. He read me that except from one of several letters from German citizens declaring that Germany should not take action in discontinuation of the submarine warfare. Zimmerman said in this day and age it is possible for the great nations to differ without coming to blows, and Germany will never do anything to bring that about. In all possibility we shall answer the note in the manner this writer calls for when he says, "Be firm, we can never give up submarine warfare. You can see our people back us up."

(By United Press)

Dallas, July 27.—Wallace Moore was arrested this afternoon charged with complicity in the bomb explosion. His father is employed in the Padgett factory. Wallace, who is a black sheep, was recently discharged from the factory. Pres. Padgett admitted receiving telephone warnings against making saddles. The police believe this is merely a blind.

Official Incompetency Not Assumed

Chicago, July 27.—Secretary Redfield, on arriving this morning said no official incompetency was assumed and none will be pardoned in the Eastland disaster.

GEORGIA WARDEN CLEARED

Commission Undecided as to Penalty for Assaultant.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27.—After investigating the attack upon Leo M. Frank at the Milledgeville state prison farm the Georgia prison commission gave out a statement exonerating Warden Smith.

There was no decision as to what disposition to make of William Green, the fellow convict who slashed Frank's throat.

This is believed to be a good photograph of G-3, the greatest submarine in the world, built by Simon Lake to his works at Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. Lake and his superintendent refused permission to one who tried to photograph the vessel, insisting that some naval officers had told them this must not be done.

The G-3 is believed to have a steaming radius of 5,500 miles, that is, she is able to cross the Atlantic and come back without refueling. She might have to be met at sea with oil to bring her to port, but she would be so near the American coast that that would not be difficult.

Though the secrecy with which the naval authorities are working, makes it impossible to gain full and accurate information about submarines now building, the statement is made that the G-3 is only one of eight American submarines which are able to cross the ocean and come back, and ten more are to be launched very soon.

Must Refrain From Submarine Attacks

(By United Press)

Washington, July 27.—It is considered essential that Germany refrain from unwarranted attacks where American lives are endangered, as in the case of the Leelanaw, officials stated. That conceded, Germany may be as firm as she pleases.

CALLS MANY CHIPS UNSAFE

Seamen's Union Secretary Comments on Disaster.

Chicago, July 27.—William Olander, secretary of the Lake Seamen's union, said there were many other ships on the Great Lakes as dangerous as the Eastland, because of faulty construction. He held that the Eastland was not properly designed to be stable and that the water ballast system was not the main fault.

Olander charged that United States inspectors under Captain Charles H. Westcott of Detroit, chief of the lake district, had played into the hands of shipowners at the expense of sailors and passengers. He said this was shown by the fact that thirty-one ships, passed by the inspectors, had sunk in the Great Lakes since 1905, several of them taking all on board to death.

Antwerp Fined $50,000.

London, July 27.—Telegraphing from Amsterdam the Morning Post correspondent says: "The city of Antwerp was fined 250,000 francs ($50,000) for popular demonstrations held there on the Belgian fete day."

SHELLS FAIL TO DESTROY VESSEL

Submarine Then Launches Torpedo at American Ship.

KEEN INTEREST IS APPARENT

British Official Circles Seek Further Details and Refuse to Make Any Comment—United States Will Make Rigid Investigation of the Incident.

London, July 27.—Telling of the sinking of the American steamer Leelanaw by a German submarine a dispatch from Kirkwall to the Central News agency says that after the crew left the Leelanaw a dozen shots were fired at the steamer. They failed to sink it, however, and it ultimately was sent to the bottom by a torpedo.

The members of the crew were taken aboard the submarine, the dispatch adds, and were well treated. When in sight of the Orkney Islands the men were ordered to return to their boats and the submarine disappeared.

Keen interest was displayed in British official circles over the news of the torpedoing, but comment was withheld until the receipt of further details which have been requested by the admiralty.

American officials will make a rigid investigation of the incident, especially with regard to the point whether the crew was removed before the torpedo was fired, as the Leelanaw was carrying a conditional contraband cargo from one belligerent port to another.

AWAITING FURTHER DETAILS

American Officials Refuse to Comment on Leelanaw Case.

Washington, July 27.—Destruction of the American ship Leelanaw by a German submarine drew sharply to the attention of officials of the United States government the fact that Germany was insisting on her interpretation of the Prussian-American treaty of 1828, in disregard of the two American notes on the subject.

In three instances of American ships destroyed or damaged—the Gulfight, the Nebraska and the William P. Frye—Germany has agreed to pay damages, and in the last case the Berlin government took the position that it had not violated the treaty of 1828, but had exercised a right given her by inference from the language of the pact.

While officials were sparing in their comment it was indicated the United States would follow in its procedure the same course as in the Frye case, disputing Germany's right to destroy American ships even if carrying contraband.

NOTE WILL BE DELAYED

Missive From London Changes State Department Plans.

Washington, July 27.—In announcing the receipt from Great Britain of a reply to the American note of March 20, which protested against the British order in council and French decree of similar contents, Secretary Lansing said the dispatch of a new note to the allies on the subject, which had been under consideration for several weeks, would be delayed until the latest communication from London was thoroughly studied.

The arrival of a new note from Sir Edward Grey, arguing at length in defense of the so called blockade under the order in council, has given the lawyers of the state department additional phases of the cases for examination.

ALLIES ADVANCE TOO FAST

One Reason for Heavy Losses in Fighting Turks.

London, July 27.—A majority of the casualties of the allies occur in the holding of trenches after they have been won, says the British press representative in the Dardanelles, in describing the operations against the Turks up to July 14.

His dispatch shows that the Turks continue to oppose obstinately the allies' advance and that slow progress is being made and that only after desperate struggles and much hand to hand fighting, largely by the aid of tremendous bombardments with expensive shells.

From July 12 to 14 the allies gained considerable ground, according to the narrative.

Swedes to Obtain Cotton.

London, July 27.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Stockholm says: "The British government has granted permission to the Swedish Cotton Spinners' association to convey to Sweden 55,000 bales of cotton now lying in English ports, provided satisfactory guarantees are given that the cotton will not be re-exported."

WHAT WAR MOVES MEAN

By J. W. T. Mason

New York, July 27.—Progress made by the Germans in crossing the Narew river puts Warsaw in pressing danger for the first time since the present operations began. The Narew river is lined with defensive works which has withstood many months of attack by Von Hindenburg's army. All the German efforts since last Autumn to reach Warsaw from the east Prussia have been checked at the Narew. The Slavs have had implicit faith in the impregnability of the Narew line and its capture by the Germans is the most serious moral as well as military blow, that could be struck in any campaign against the Polish capital. The situation is not sufficiently desperate to warrant the statement that Warsaw is inevitably lost, but the Germans can find encouragement in the Narew success at a time when doubt might have begun to prevail at Berlin as to the success of the present operations. About 20 miles separate the Germans at Narew from Warsaw. This is twice the distance between the Polish capital and the German forces which have been held in idleness for so long in the west. That the Slavs have been able to save Warsaw so long, there remains a possibility that the Narew success may be checked and the Germans prevented from reaching the goal. If the Germans reach the Bug from the Narew, the Germans may be expected to capture Warsaw. The Bug-Narew operations are the dominant ones, for the moment, and they may decide Warsaw's fate.

STRAWBERRIES ALL SUMMER

Not the Idle Thought of a Dreamer,
but the Realization of the Present, Says an Authority

By Ernest H. Fayer, Editor.
Strawberries all summer! Yes, that is not the idle thoughts of a dreamer but the realization of the present. Through the tireless efforts of the plant breeders, varieties of strawberries are now available which will produce its fruit all summer, almost from the time the snow leaves
the fields in the spring until its welcome white blanket covers them again in the fall.

The remarkable thing about these strawberries is that they produce their fruit while other kinds are loafing.
They are strawberries in all other respects, just the same kind of strawberries you have always known, the same in color, size, flavor, appearance and goodness, except—and here's the difference—except that they come at the time of the year when the ordinary kinds of strawberries have closed up shop and quit the fruit business for the season.

From August until the snow flies
is the season for these fall bearing strawberries, on newly planted fields.
Plants set in the spring will produce fruit in the fall of the same year, and the strawberry grower need never fear late spring frosts with these new varieties. * * * Their ambition in life is to produce, and do so as rapidly as possible, with this end in view these fall bearing strawberries are continually in bloom and ripening fruit at the same time. In established fields, it is not at all uncommon to pick ripe berries from under the snow. What a chance this affords the strawberry specialists,
and the man who wants a few berry plants in the garden! It affords the opportunity of having berries just when they are wanted. No fruit, surely, possesses greater possibilities.

KEEPING SHARP
EYE ON MEXICO

United States May Soon Take Definite Action.

PLANS ARE NOT DISCLOSED

President Wilson is Understood to Be Revolving Several Suggested Plans
in His Mind—May Again Appeal to Carranza to Confer With Other Factional Leaders.

Washington, July 27.—A definite
step toward settling the Mexican problem will be taken by the United States government in the near future.
Authoritative announcement to this effect was made at the state department, although the nature of the contemplated action was not disclosed.

President Wilson is understood to be revolving several suggested courses in his mind. His decision probably will not become known before his return to Washington from Cornish, N. H.

Officials in close touch with the president think he has not finally determined what is to be done.
His most probable course, it was reported, would be to urge General Carranza for the last time to confer with other faction leaders in an effort to bring about peace.

Should Carranza again refuse this plan, it is said, contemplates efforts to assemble other Mexican leaders who will represent a majority of the Mexican people.

The conference would arrange for a constitutional convention which would plan for an election and the establishment of a government which the United States would recognize and help to maintain.

includes men between the ages
of forty-three and fifty.

NORTHWEST NEWSWORKERS IN CITIES:
FARMERS ARE STUMPED

(By United Press)

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—Transportation of thousands of men to harvest the Northwest's bumper crops
today loomed up as a serious problem to the farmers of the Northwest states in the United States. In Canada, the situation was relieved by railroads offering free transportation. The anti-pass law and the fact that men laborers were concentrated in the cities during the spring, because there was little railroad repair work done throughout country districts,
added to the difficulties of farmers.

Corn was slightly damaged by the recent rains, but other than that crop
there has been a universal improvement in the Northwest crops, over last years condition. Wheat is in prime condition, and will begin to move about September 1. Flax, in fair condition, is beginning to move today. Dean Woods of the Minnesota agricultural school, urges that at least two thirds of the college students go to the harvest field this year.

Farmers With Guns

Maning, N. D., July 26.—Although the days when pitched battles were frequently held between ranchers and homesteaders, are presumed to be long passed, a number of farmers near here are alleged to have loaded up guns with buckshot. It is asserted that stock men have been cutting fences and that cattle have ruined hundreds of acres of growing crops.

Land Prices Soar

Stanton, N. D., July 26.—As the result of accidental striking of a gas well on the Phillip Benz farm about a mile southwest of Expansion last week, farmers in this section of the state are today raising prices on their land.

LET US DO YOUR PRINTINGIF KIDNEYS ACT
BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat, which forms uric acid.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority.
Meat forms uric acid which overworks
the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache,
dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue
is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes
and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys,
also to neutralize acids in the urine so it
no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effevescent lithia-water drink.

"ORE DIGGERS" TO PLAY RETURN GAME

Ironton Here Sunday, August 1, in a Whirlwind Affair From Start to Finish, Big Crowd Expected

PROCTOR THINKS HE CAN WIN

They Predict that Brainerd Will Get the Small End of the Score. Many Ironton Fans Coming

A return game with Ironton has been scheduled for next Sunday and from the advance dope, the "Ore Diggers" are coming down to the Gate-way town to actually beat the All-Stars. Manager Proctor after the last game, was much in earnest in stating that his team would cop the big money the next time they played here and now that the opportunity is theirs, it is expected several changes in the line-up will result, and that the team will put up the hardest battle of any team visiting here this season. Brainerd, however, is aware that it must play half every minute in order to stop their lucky opponents and with weather permitting, regular practice will be held next Friday night as usual. Every play and trick that the team know will be rehearsed with precision so that a game without errors may result. Victor will probably decorate the mound with Roderick on the receiving end. Bowman, the young phenom from Pine River, will be seen in action next week when St. Cloud plays here for the Merchants & Clerks picnic.

The crowd in attendance to the game last Sunday was by far the largest that has yet turned out and the management is in the hopes the fans will respond likewise at next Sunday's game. With good weather a majority of the natives from Ironton will no doubt be on hand and Brainerd fans will be much in the minority unless everyone foregoes their trip to the lake and gets on the job early, in a front seat.

Last Sunday, Ironton played the strong Moose Lodge team from Duluth for ten innings to a tie of 1 to 1 and this record in itself is enough to warrant the team bragging of their prowess. Unless Ironton loads up with a number of the Northern League players recently laid off by Superior, Brainerd can win but the boys will find the shedding hard and must get together and play every minute of the game.

A FINE PAPER

"Greater Development Edition" Issued by Aitkin Republican on 21st Anniversary

A "Greater Development Edition" was issued July 22 by the Aitkin Republican celebrating its 21st anniversary. The Aitkin Republican is one of the staunch, progressive papers of Central Minnesota. A. L. Hamilton being the owner, B. L. Hollister lessee and editor, Mrs. B. L. Hollister associate editor and A. A. Warren, the special edition solicitor.

In an editorial it is stated that the "Greater Development Edition" is printed primarily for the purpose of telling interested people in other states of the exceptional opportunities offered for farming and stock raising, and of the productive lands that may be bought at reasonable prices and on easy payments.

The development from logging to farming which has taken place in Aitkin county has been duplicated by Crow Wing county and all welcome the progress attained by the Aitkin Republican and the county is so fitly represents. The prosperity in Aitkin county has a stimulating effect on its neighboring counties which include Crow Wing county.

The editor is well written and fine illustrated and is a distinct contribution to newspaper literature which deserves permanent preservation as a matter of reference.

Special meetings consisting of seven public services, held at Borden Lake, conducted by Evangelist Clarence J. Martin, closed last Sunday night.

Two public invitations were given on the last day of the series which resulted in ten professions, nine of which were adults and heads of families. In spite of the busy season the meetings were well attended and the crowds on the closing day filled the building to more than its capacity.

Mr. Martin also spoke at the M. E. church in Cutler at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Many persons attended the Borden lake services from South Bay lake, Cutler and Dykeman. John Crowell and Ed. Phillips greatly helped the meetings by using their automobiles to bring people to the services.

CATCH BIG PICKEREL

Children of Wilbur Hunt Feature in Catch of 19 Pound Fish

While fishing with troller in South Bay lake last week the two children of Wilbur Hunt, Edith, fourteen and Arthur, nine years of age, hooked a nineteen pound pickerel.

Arthur who was holding the line at the time finally brought the fish to the side of the boat and with the assistance of his sister got it in the boat after a big struggle. Arthur then threw himself full length on the fish and held it down with the weight of his body while Edith grabbed the ears and rowed for shore where with the help of older persons, the pickerel was landed.

As a result both children have become confirmed anglers and now they only come in from the lake long enough to get their meals and sleep.

RECEPTION HELD

Over 60 Attend one in Honor of Rev. F. Kirker at Home of A. R. Fernstermacher

Over sixty persons attended a reception in honor of Rev. F. Kirker, the evening of July 21st, at the farm home of A. R. Fernstermacher, in Long Lake township. The weather was fair and practically the entire evening was spent on the lawn under the big pine trees that make the Fernstermacher farm famous. All the harmless games known to both young and old present, were played and it was near midnight when the crowd departed. Refreshments were served at ten o'clock, and many an ice cream dish had to be refilled and the cake passed the second time.

The affair marked the close of the summer pastorate of Rev. Kirker, who came from Ohio, May 1st and took charge of the South Long Lake Presbyterian circuit, composed of the points at Gibb school house, Daggett Brook church, and South Long Lake church. Mr. Kirker is a student of McCormick Theological Seminary at Chicago and returns to that institution about September 1st.

Rev. Kirker is a young man of more than ordinary ability, is an able preacher and pastor and has many friends where he labored this season.

The reception tendered Mr. Kirker was also given as a sort of farewell reception to Mr. and Mrs. Fernstermacher and their son Ray, who after a residence of six years on their farm in Long Lake township have sold out and intend soon to move to Brainerd. Mr. and Mrs. Fernstermacher came from Winona county, Minnesota, fourteen years ago and settled in Crow Wing county and have been active in the social and church life of their community.

Hanson-Scott

Thomas Scott and Miss Mary Hanson were married in Brainerd Monday afternoon at the court house, the ceremony being performed by Judge J. T. Sanborn. Witnesses were Melvin Smith and Miss Alma Fahlstrom.

Mr. Scott is a successful young farmer and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Scott who have owned a farm on the western shore of Mille Lacs lake for the past thirty-five years and the family is well known over Crow Wing and Aitkin counties.

The family of the bride lives in eastern Crow Wing county and the young lady is prominent in the social affairs of the young people of that part of the country.

Pitts-Berbee

The wedding of Peter Berbee and Miss Anna Pitts was solemnized on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pitts in St. Mathias, Father Lamey officiating.

The bride was attired in white silk and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Susan Betzold, as bridesmaid, who was dressed in white organdie and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The best man was Mike Pitts, Jr.

A hundred guests were present at the ceremonies, following which a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Pitts left this afternoon for their home in St. Paul, many friends and relatives being at the platform to bid them goodbye.

The Dispatch extends its best wishes to the happy couple for their continued happiness and prosperity.

CONCERNING BLINDPIGS

Editors Dispatch:—

In your Tuesday's paper your news items gave an account of the raiding of W. T. Larrabee's place.

The portion of this item which most interested us was that which reported the remarks of a certain councilman relative to the costs of the raid.

The one argument always used by the "wets" when a city is to be voted wet or dry is that the blind pigs will flourish if it is voted dry. When the town is dry then the "wets" use their full influence to favor the blind pigs and discredit the dry program.

The people spoke decisively for a dry city at the municipal election on April 6th and the mayor and police are doing their best to carry out the wish of the voters. They should have the unqualified support of the council instead of criticisms. These illegal places cannot be reached and closed without a small additional expenditure and no councilman can make his "oath of office" good without supporting the program.

It is to be hoped that the councilman who objected to the procedure did so without a full realization of what such actions on his part meant in this movement for a cleaner city.

Under our present form of city government it requires the hearty co-operation of both mayor and council to insure the success of any movement and it is hoped that the "dry" regime may have the support of both. If after two years of a vigilant effort to exterminate the blind pigs the voters are not satisfied they can express themselves at the polls, but until then the administration should stand squarely by a dry town.

ONE YEAR OF THE GREAT WAR

AS SEEN IN ENGLAND

BY ED. L. KEEN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
SECOND STORY.

London, July 27th—After a year at war, the British Empire has somewhat less than three quarters of a million troops in the field; its Allies have approximately ten million. The British front in the western theatre is about forty miles in length, the lines of the other allies east and west, including Serbia and Montenegro, cover some sixteen hundred miles. As the ratio of troops employed is one to fourteen and the ratio of mileage is one to forty, there appears to be some justification for the complaints recently made—quite unofficially, of course—both in France and Russia, that England is not doing her share of the work.

But the question as to whether England is fulfilling her obligations should be considered in the light of her promises. On this basis, she has delivered more than was specified in the contract. There were two clauses in the secret agreement made with France long before the war started: England would take care of the seas.

She would send an expeditionary force to France of 120,000 men.

That's all there was to it. She has carried out the first clause to the letter; she has sent nearly six times as many men to the firing line as she bargained for, and she is still sending them as fast as they can be trained.

Only the other day, the Temps of Paris, in an obviously inspired editorial commenting on recent tributes paid to France by the British press, made these significant remarks: "Frankness should be mutual. If on the land the support of our British allies is still only limited, we must not forget that on the seas it is they who have had much the heaviest task. If at the beginning of the war we were able to complete the equipment of our army with a rapidity which was not one of the German staff's least surprises, we owe it to the fleet which rendered us master of the seas." The Temps then admits that to this capital support on the sea, the British Empire has brought its industrial and financial resources, "while the military effort on land has really surpassed all forecasts."

There probably always will be some difference of opinion as to whether it was British valor or German blundering that saved Paris in the early days of the war. Perhaps it was the two. Anyhow, Paris was saved, and Britishers at least always will give the lion's share of the credit to Field Marshal French, his generals and his soldiers. But even if the salvation of Paris was not due to the British, there is no question that they and they alone saved Calais and the other channel ports. Of course in accomplishing this, England has done herself a greater service than she has the French.

Since the failure of the Paris attack, Germany's main effort has been concentrated in the direction of Calais, and that is the reason why, until he has received sufficient reinforcements, General French will be unable to extend his front. The fate of the British Empire rests upon the holding of those forty miles.

All idea of the "big Spring drive" upon which the military writers had fed the imagination of the British public for months was abandoned at Neuve Chapelle, when at the cost of 13,000 men, the British barely made a dent in the German line of highly fortified trenches. In what was accomplished the Neuve Chapelle offensive was in a sense a victory; in what it failed to do, it was a defeat—for Lille was the objective and the Germans are still firmly planted in Lille.

Then after the second battle of Ypres, in which the Germans first used asphyxiating gases, came the battle of La Basse. This showed the British public why the "big drive" had become impossible. The British and French troops were to make a joint advance after a preliminary bombardment for three hours of the German trenches and the field of wire entanglement intervening. In that time the French fired nearly 200,000 high explosive projectiles; in one hour the British had exhausted their supply of 20,000 high explosives and the rest of the time used shrapnel. Result: The French infantry advanced two miles into trenches that had been practically cleared, with a loss of only two thousand; the British lost 15,000 men in attempting to take trenches that hadn't been cleared.

A newspaperman witnessed this battle. He told the public through the medium of the London Times the reason why the British had failed, starting the scandal that disrupted the formation of a coalition ministry sheared Lord Kitchener's wings and created the new department of munitions, with Lloyd George at its head.

Somebody had blundered. Lord Northcliffe's newspapers fastened responsibility on Kitchener. While giving him due credit for his magnificent work in raising, organizing and training the largest volunteer army the world has even seen, they charged him with neglecting the one thing upon which any possible hope of British success on land could be based—an adequate supply of high explosive shells.

The one inexplicable incident is Premier Asquith's statement "upon the highest possible authority" that neither Great Britain nor her allies had been hampered by lack of munitions—a statement directly contradicted by his recent frantic appeals to the workmen of England to mobilize for the supply of munitions.

AS SEEN IN GERMANY

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
SECOND STORY.

Berlin, July 27th—The Kaiser will go down in history as William the Great, if the events of the first year of the war appeal as vividly to the imaginations of future Germans as they do to the generation that is living through the present world conflict.

Frederick the Great, held Europe at bay, and saved Prussia through seven years of strife. His descendant, who now holds the Hohenzollern throne, has more than equalled Frederick's task, because Frederick had England with him, and there was then no United States to furnish Germany's enemies with munitions. Nobody expects the present conflict to run seven years, but if the allies can stand a war of that duration, so can Germany with the Kaiser at the head of affairs. When the war started the Emperor William had fallen into disfavor with many of his people for a number of reasons. Some believed he was too autocratic, others thought he was too well disposed toward the English, and still others thought he was afraid of the military machine Germany had developed and was too prejudiced in favor of peace at any price ever to permit the machine to test itself. The early days of the war, when enemy after enemy took the field against Germany, people talked disparagingly of the Emperor, as an incompetent, who had played his cards badly and had overestimated Germany's strength.

But when victories began to be won, and when the enemy first here and then there was rolled back the popular opinion of the Kaiser began to change. People confessed they had misjudged him. The bitter criticism of Germany's enemies directed against the Kaiser, and the comments of neutral nations, added to his popularity at home, until now, the Kaiser is the idol of his nation. He is regarded as the embodiment of German virtues, the representative of German might and power. The nation agrees he has not abused the absolutely autocratic power he has wielded since last August, but has used his authority to meet every crisis confronting Germany in a manner that wins unanimous approval. If the war ends under conditions substantially as they are now, Germany will have saved herself, and will have demonstrated her powers so convincingly that the Kaiser, who is now responsible for all things in the Empire must be given the title of "The Great."

The Kaiser, in particular, has inspired Germans with confidence in the outcome of the war. His calm assertions of victory have been followed by deeds substantially his words so often that he is not only the ruler but also the prophet of his people. When the war began, few Germans, deep down in their hearts, believed the Teutonic Empire had even a fair chance of succeeding. That is why there was so much hysteria last August, and why the departing subjects of the enemy powers were so frequently insulted. That is why also the Germans lost their heads in Belgium and adopted a system of terrorism. That is why, too, the hymn of hate directed against England was so popular.

Now, therefore, after a year of strife, Germany has received the confidence and believes in the Kaiser. The fear of last summer has departed and the Germans are no longer saying "God punish England." Instead of the former hatred of England there is now developing a curious kind of contempt, mingled with self-amazement that the Germans should so boldly misjudged the English. Nothing more remarkable has happened in Germany during the past year than the change of popular opinion concerning England. The might of the British Empire was magnified quite out of proportion to its actual power, the Germans now are saying.

This war was worth the fighting so say the Germans, if only because it has picked the bubble of British strength. England will never again occupy her old place in the world. The ancient spirit of the English, which the world has long been accustomed to taking at its own valuation, has been found to be no longer existent. England has lost the war for the allies, in the opinion of German militarists, and by doing so, has irreparably stained her own prestige.

The past year's events say the Germans, have provided a complete test of the comparative merits of Germanic and British civilizations. Germany has revealed her possession of organization ability, of initiative, of austere patriotism, of inventiveness, of an unbroken spirit under adversity, of discipline, of an ability to meet every new problem the war has thrust upon her.

Where Germany has succeeded, England has failed. The English (in the opinion of Germans) have proved themselves to be boasters, muddlers and uninspired in any of their works. They have been revealed to the world as a people undermined by discontent, unpatriotic, so prejudiced that they cannot even now accept the undoubted fact that their demigod, Lord Kitchener, failed them in their hour of need. The upper classes have shown bravery but no qualities of intellectual and masterful leadership, and their lower classes are taking advantage of the perplexities of the war to strike for higher wages!

The Germans are asking what this past year of warfare has shown the English to possess which the world would be the better for the keeping. What can the world better be rid of, ask the Germans, at this anniversary time, the qualities the English have shown since last August, or the qualities the Germans have shown? Here is a Germany, beginning the second year of her war against the world, full of confidence, with increased faith in the destiny of the fatherland.

SECOND STORY.

Paris, July 27th—The Great Doubt has been lifted from the heart of France.

The accomplishment of this was the grandest deed of French arms in all the year of Armageddon which began a year ago this week. In history the feat will be known as the victory of the Battle of the Marne.

Not only did this victory probably decide the fate of France geographically, but its influence upon the spirit of the country was, and still is, incalculable. For notwithstanding the "solidarity" accomplished instantly and spontaneously on Aug. 1, the day the general mobilization order was posted, a great doubt weighed like lead on the hearts of those who marched away singing as well as those who stayed behind and wept.

Everybody remembered 1870. The oldest remembered the swift defeat in the Franco-Prussian war and the horrible nightmare of blunders. The young had heard the story time and again. The French, 1870, were totally unprepared for war, were badly equipped and badly led. Their plans lacked cohesion. Generals fought independently, one of the other. Treason was laid at the door of one and altogether it was a terrible mess in which the poor soldiers never had the slightest chance notwithstanding a courage which wrung from even the Prussians the exclamation: "Oh, what brave fellows!"

So, last August, when the soldiers started for the war, each one bore in his heart a burden heavier than the knapsack on his back: Would history repeat itself? Would 1914 be another 1870? Was France better prepared this time. Would she be better led? Were her generals equal to the great task ahead? If not, then.....

The troops dared not let their minds run beyond this point. Individually the most intelligent soldiers in the world, they have the other curse and blessing of civilization, an imagination; so they sang and quit thinking; they joked with one another, never admitting even to themselves—let alone to their companions—that the doubt was there.

Back home the hearts of mothers, fathers, wives, sisters and sweethearts were troubled by the same unexpressed dread lest 1914 prove another 1870. And if such should prove to be the case.....

They, too, smiled and talked cheerfully of a new and irresistible France.

All knew, those who remained waiting as well as those who went to war, that for 44 years Germany had been living, eating, sleeping, drinking, dreaming war and that this war had come. What about France? Who was General Joffre? Who were the other generals? Newspapers had but recently declared that France was unprepared, was this true? And all went on being troubled in secret lest France should again prove unready.

After vague news reached Paris that General Joffre was in retreat from Charleroi, the 1870 bugaboo loomed bigger and bigger. Maubeuge was invested; Lille was occupied. Then there came silent, tense days, without any real news. The government moved to Bordeaux; the Germans were now in Maubeuge, Compiègne, Soissons, Rheims, Chalons, Epervan, Luneville, Verdun and Nancy were seriously menaced. Paris it seemed, was doomed and Uhlans were reported to be at the gates. The worst fears of soldiers and home-folks seemed realized: It looked like another 1870, only worse.

Still there was no panic. There was the exodus of thousands of people who objected to living in Paris during a German occupation, but the city was calm. France's "sacred union" held firm.

But the Doubt, instilled into the mind of France by 1870, was there, galling and real. The people could not know that General Joffre was later to be called a genius. They could only wonder if his retreat was strategy or incompetence. The censorship was strict and they had few facts to base opinion on. They did not know the Battle of the Marne was being fought, nor that Joffre had performed, by winning a victory there, a sort of eighth wonder of the world. Yet this was true. General Bonnal said of this battle:

"This is the first time to my knowledge that a great army, retreating and fighting at the same time and for eight days in succession, was able to furnish the effort by itself to transform instantly its long and painful retreat into an irresistible offensive."

Yet that is what the French army was able to do. Through this victory a New France was born. The Great Doubt was lifted, the 1870 bugaboo banished. The people were given confidence in the army, the army in itself.

Henceforth, whatever may happen to the French soldier, he will refuse to be discouraged. He can advance, retreat or doggedly hold what he has won, any or all, with tenacity and good cheer. He has faith in his officers and faith in himself. He knows the war may be long, but he grins and grits his teeth: "We'll get 'em at last!" he says.

The ghost of 1870 has been laid.

Banish the "Blues!"

If you have that depressed feeling it's more than likely that your blood is out of order—impoorished or poisoned.

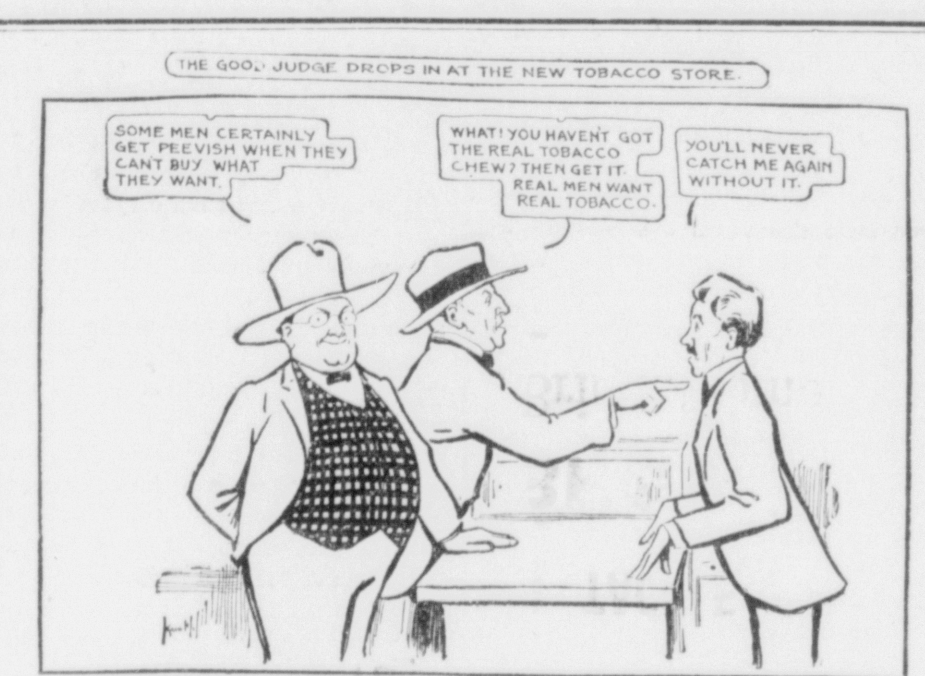

There is only one thing that will alter your present condition—that's to restore your stomach to normal health and strength. For a weak or diseased stomach cannot make good blood. If your digestion is bad your food will not make the good blood which nourishes body, brain, heart and nerve.

DEALERS all along the line say their best trade is using the Real Tobacco Chew.

It's a cleaner chew, a better chew and once a man discovers it, the old ordinary tobacco doesn't suit him any more

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!!
W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

“Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste.”
